He couldn't pay, and was sent back to jail. Finally Jake Rogers went on a stay bond for the fellow's release.

The Avoca Herald admits that Oakland is centrally located geographically, and hence a better point for holding the extra term of court than Avoca, but that the railway connections at Oakland are not so good as at Avoca, and hence Avoca should have it. If that sort of argument is to be followed out Avoca must admit that all the terms of court should be held in Council Bluffs, as this city is the largest railway center not only in the county but in the west.

The Boston bicyclists, Wilmont and Sewall, appeared again at the rink last night, and again aroused the wildest enthusiasm. They certainly are wonderful, their double acrobatic performances being almost too marvelous to believe even when seen. It is indeed a puzzle how they can so accurately balance, and how they can jump and climb all over and under and through a bicycle, which both of them most folk to keep outside of without any fancy movements.

Mrs. M. L. Laitram and Mrs. J. L. Wilson, of Des Moines, women suffragists, bought out The Free Press at Cedar Rapids, imagining they had purchased the good will of the paper with it, and intending to change the name to The Weekly Transcript. Hardly had they published their first number when the man of whom they had bought was on the ground with new material, on which he has since begun the publication of a paper under the name he used before.

A rather good story is told by some of the Harlan boys at the expense of a Council Bluffs saloon keeper and Thomas Bowman, in regard to the special election last Tuesday. It seems that several of the Harlan boys were in the Bluffs on that day and had congregated with some other jolly fellows in the saloon, and while there the saloon man commenced telling some pretty tall stories about the number of votes he had secured. One of the Harlan boys thought he would get in a little fun, so he said in a manner indicative of extreme sorrow that citizens should act so dreadfully: "Well you fellows will have to fly around pretty lively if you beat the Avoca fellows, for the train from Harlan on which we came down this morning was loaded down with men going down to Avoca to vote against the tax, and as soon as the depot was reached they made a bee line for the polls, and the train pulled right back after another load." The effect of this information upon Mr. Saloon Keeper, was simply wonderful. Seizing his hat he started for the door yelling "Fly aheming, if dot ish so, Tom Bowman will haf so many sah dre or four drains star for Omaha." Rushing out of the door he noticed Tom standing across the street, and yelled to him, "come over." Tom started but so great was the excitement of the saloon keeper, that he rushed out into the middle of the street to impart the news. Tom was considerably excited himself, but happening to glance over by the saloon door he caught sight of the Harlan boys, who were "sniding just a little," and he tumbled to the racket. It is needless to add that the Harlan boys got several free drinks over the joke.—Avoca Herald.

Clerk and judges of election were allowed $9.00 each. Alderman Wood asked for the report of the committee which was appointed to look into the matter of the U. P., who promised to comply with their agreement as soon as the frost was out of the ground. Mrs. Baird was allowed $100 damages to her property for the change of grade. The retiring City Attorney Mayne was employed to assist the new city attorney. Holmes in cases before the supreme court next week.

MUCH OF A FARCE. A Drunken Brandisher of a Butcher Knife Set Free by a Drunken Witness.

A man named C. H. Mason, and living on Washington avenue, has of late caused the police much trouble, they having been called to his house several times to quiet him down when he was on his wild spree. When whisky is in, his wife seem out, and he becomes quite violent. Thursday night he was on another of his sprees and on his return home roused up his family. He was brandishing a butcher knife, and when his little daughter tried to quiet him down, he threatened to run her through with it. He then left the house and went over to a neighbor's, A. Parrott, the man who gained some notoriety by having tented for some time with his family on a vacant lot in the Fourth ward. Mason commenced kicking in the door, and Parrott, being aroused, opened the door and let him in. He brandished his butcher-knife there in a wild way, and the police being called, was arrested and locked up. Yesterday afternoon he had a hearing, the charge against him being simple assault on Parrott. The family and Parrott did not seem disposed to prosecute, and a bench warrant was issued for them. On being brought in, the woman was not allowed to testify against her husband; the little girl could only testify as to the row which occurred at her home, and knew nothing of any assault on Parrott, beyond that her father went over there and commenced kicking at the door. Parrott himself was placed on the stand, but he was apparently in that happy state of drunkenness when he was at peace with the whole world and particularly Mason. In a maddening mumble he testified that Mason struck at the wall with his head, and came near to hitting his head, but that Mason did not strike at him, but was, oh, so good a friend. The fellow was in better condition for a cell than a court room, and with his failure to testify to the assault, the man Mason was discharged. Now if on the next spree he uses his knife on his family or neighbors, who will be to blame?

A Slight Blaze. Yesterday morning about 7 o'clock the alarm of fire called out the fire department but they found no need of throwing water except by buckets. The blaze was in a house owned by J. M. Palmer, near the corner of Tenth avenue and Sixth street, and rented to some family. The cause of the blaze was a defective flue, and all the damage done was a hole burned in the roof.
